The first information and call for papers

"As the lightning in the dark night flashes the entire horizon in front of the passenger, such a lightning in the brain of ingenious man opens new horizons in science and discovers new areas of science."

M. Milanković

ABOUT THE SYMPOSIUM

CPMA2013 is an international symposium for students of technical faculties. The symposium is an opportunity for students to present their papers and express their opinions and experiences in the implementation of the Bologna principles in education. The maximum number of authors per paper is three, and the participants can be students of bachelor and master studies.

Each paper must have a mentor. All accepted papers will be published in the Proceedings CPMA2013.
