

Join L'Oréal, the world's #1 beauty company present in over 150 markets. For over 100 years, we've been transforming, fueled by data, tech, innovation, and science. Together, we solve complex challenges at scale, while staying true to our commitments to society and the planet.

This could be the beginning of an unbelievable journey. Career possibilities are endless – and YOU are in the driving seat.

Are you passionate about mobile development?

We're looking for a Junior Mobile Developer to join our team!

Check out this amazing internship opportunity to kick-start your career!

Junior Mobile Developer (React Native/Flutter)

The Role

The person will have the opportunity to engage with multiple functions, gain on the job experience & connect with our communities, inside of the organization, to carry the brand name and equity but also create a solid business background for themselves.

The ideal candidate should:

- Have an excellent academic record, preferably with a Business administration ,IT orientation
- Passion for learning and growth in mobile app development
- Basic knowledge of React Native or Flutter
- Problem-solving mindset and teamwork skills
- Be eager to work hard in order to acquire knowledge and impactful experience that will kick-off his/her career
- Have excellent communication skills, attention to detail and be a team player
- Have excellent command of the Greek and English language
- No previous working experience is required

What we offer! Continuous training, exposure to IT, mobile app development and business development teams, a thrilling experience in a contemporary & fast paced environment!

Do you think you are the profile that we are looking for? Apply now here!